

Lada Altmanová is a Research Engineer at CESNET Association. She is particularly involved in research and development concerning the economic aspects of optical network implementation and leased fibre and wavelength tenders including the optical last mile.

Stanislav Šíma is the Head of Research and Development department at the CESNET Association. He is particularly involved in research and development concerning the technical and economic aspects of optical network development including optical last mile and hardware, leased fibre and wavelength tenders.