

Ian Foster is Senior Scientist and Associate Director of the Mathematics and Computer Science Division at Argonne National Laboratory, Professor of Computer Science at the University of Chicago and Senior Fellow in the Argonne/U.Chicago Computation Institute. He currently co-leads the Globus project with Dr. Carl Kesselman of USC/ISI as well as a number of other major Grid initiatives, including the DOE-funded Earth System Grid and the NSF-funded GriPhyN and GRIDS Center projects. He co-edited the book ``The Grid: Blueprint for a New Computing Infrastructure.