

John Naughton lives and works in England, but is proudly Irish. He graduated from University College, Cork and later from Emmanuel College, Cambridge.

He is a control engineer with a strong interest in systems analysis and computer networks. He has combined careers as a journalist and an academic and has taught at the Open University since 1972. In addition to journalism, he has published Open University course material, research papers and a book, "A Brief History of the Future: the origins of the Internet". At present he is working on a new Open University course and collection of essays about the Open Source movement, software and society.